POLLY LARKIN

Who bids for the children? That query would flash into your mind many times if you would spend a day or two house-hunting in San Francisco. It is a deplorable fact, but nevertheless true, that no landlord, or at least very few, want to rent their houses or flats to people with children. You would think that a woman's heart would soften a little when a tired mother implored the owner to rent her a flat or a house where she could gather her wee flock around her, but entreaties do not change her one bit and she holds to her determination not to rent to anyone who is blessed with children in the household until the tired mother turned away disgusted and weary to pursue her way in quest of a dwelling place. Children and dogs are classed in the same category. I sauntered from house to house with a friend who was in quest of a home, and every place we went we were met with the same question: "Have you any dogs or children?" and on learning that there were three of the latter the applicant met with a flat refusal. The owner would not think of the matter for an instant. Everything that was modern, new and desirable she could not get. The tumble-down, rickety old places, reeking with odors from bad sewerage and poor housekeeping of other tenants and wholly unfit for human habitation could be had at a good price because there were children in the household, and they had to charge more for the wear and tear caused by them. We tramped all day without securing a place, and started out bright and early next morning armed with lists from the different real estate agents and newspaper advertisements galore in search of a place where children would be tolerated. We found it after a weary enough and most discouraging day. It was no use arguing the question with most of the landlords. One of them remarked to my friend, "Oh, of course, your children are all right; but that is what every mother says and thinks." There was a ring to his announcement that savored of sarcasm.

One old lady with a sweet motherly face and silvery hair, who did not look as though she could ever be guilty of an unkind or uncharitable act and whom you would have sworn was the children's friend, put the usual question, "Any dogs or children, madam?" "No dogs, but three children," replied my friend, smiling at the kindly-faced old lady in a way that would have melted most people and have made it hard for them to say no. But not so with this old lady. Instantly the smile left her face and it hardened and lost its attractiveness. "I have made up my mind never to rent the house again to anyone with children. The last person who was here had what I supposed were the best children I ever saw. They were gentlemanly and ladylike. But I found out that was their company manners. You never saw such a condition as this house was in. The walls were penciled and covered with dirt from soiled hands. The woodwork was chipped and scratched in every room. There were broken window panes, and there wasn't but one glass globe left on the chandeliers in the whole house. I had just had the rooms newly tinted, papered and the woodwork painted just before they moved in, for the children in the family who had previously occupied it had played havoc with the house. It caused me a good many dollars to put it in order and the rent did not pay me for the wear and tear. I then said I would never rent the house to a family with children again, but I allowed myself to be talked into it. I never will again. I like your face, and am sure I would like you for a tenant, but the children are a drawback to making any bargain, and I say most emphatically no." One woman said, "I don't like children and dogs. One of them is bad enough, but you take them together and I don't know which is the worst. They do more damage to the house than the rent can pay for." Another woman, who was a foreigner, was half way inclined to rent her place in spite of her objection to children in order to copy a piece of point lace my friend wore on her neck. "You have a very pretty tie," she remarked, taking hold of the little bit of fragile lace. "I make that, too, but I never see that pattern before. Will you be good to let me copy it?" We would have paid the deposit and secured the place then and there, but at that moment her husband made his appearance, and, after talking in a foreign language for a few minutes, she turned to my friend and reluctantly informed her that her husband would not allow her to rent the place to anyone with children. A lady after showing us through the part of her house she wished to rent, said, "I like children and don't mind having them around if they behave, but my husband has become so exasperated by the capers of the little folks that he vows and declares that he will never allow the place to be rented to anyone having a family. However, he may change his mind. I will talk to him this evening, and you call again to-morrow if you don't find anything you like better, and maybe I will have some good news for you. Evidently she was a good persuader, for it was her home my friend finally secured apartments from.

Whose fault is it that children are looked upon as such little terrors by so many people? Is it that the parents are too lenient and have lost control over their children by humoring every whim and giving up to them on all occasions rather than have a scene? A gentleman answered the query the other night. He said: "The old-time discipline has disappeared, Polly. Parents seem nowadays to be ruled by the children instead of being the reverse, as it was when I was a boy. Nine-tenths of the children nowadays have, or seem to have, no respect for their parents, and they begin rather young, almost in their babyhood days to consider them old fogies and back numbers. The trouble is parents are not strict enough. They say to the child who is marking a wall up with a pencil, 'Don't do that.' The little scamp may stop for a moment and wait until the attention of his father or mother is directed to something else, then they pursue their own sweet will again. The wall is defaced, they have openly rebelled and disobeyed their parents, and they know they have done wrong, but they will endeavor to keep out of the way until the storm has blown over. The moment the child disobeys its parents and is allowed to go unpunished or they do not take the trouble to reason with him explaining the seriousness of disobedience, etc., that moment the child loses respect for its parents and gains the impression that his misdeeds will be passed over. It is all wrong, Polly, for such a child can never be lovable and can never grow up to be the honorable man or woman that a child does who has been used to discipline and who has learned to respect the wishes of its parents from infancy. But mind you, I don't blame the children, for the parents have made the mistake. They possibly did it out of the tenderness of their hearts, but it was a mistaken kindness."

BRIEF REVIEW.

A Fatal Photograph.

In some respects one of the most remarkable war photographs ever made was secured by a man named Meyer, a correspondent for a German illustrated newspaper during the war in South Africa. Meyer was with the Boers, writes a contributor to Everybody's Magazine, and one day during one of Buller's attacks along the Tugela he took a position on the firing line. The fire from the British batteries across the river was very heavy during the preliminary period of the assault, and the shells literally rained on the low lying kopjes occupied by Botha's army. Meyer thought he saw a good opportunity to secure a fine picture, and he jumped out of his "schanze" to snap it. Just then a big lyddite shell exploded within a few feet of him, killing him instantly. I afterward secured his camera, which was comparatively uninjured. When the film it contained was developed, I discovered that Meyer had made a beautiful photograph of the huge shell which snuffed out his life. I sent a copy of the picture to his relatives in Germany.

Fruit Grafting.

The grafting of fruit trees, says Public Opinion, has to-day become such a common operation that there is no need to present the ordinary methods, but what is less well known is that one may take young fruits of certain species and graft them on the branches of other trees. La Nature, Paris, published a photograph showing how a pear of one variety was grafted on a branch not its parent. The bark was slit at the end of a branch and into this slit the stem of the fruit was inserted, the fruit ripening as though it had never been disturbed from the original place of its growth. This method seems to open up a wide field, as well from the scientific as from the practical point of view. It is easy to see all the advantages that could be derived from the method for the purpose of transporting fruits from trees too heavily loaded to those which have few fruits upon them.

How Edison Lives.

Thomas A. Edison offers this explanation of his ability to do the enormous amount of work he performs: "I eat just about a pound of food a day—three meals, but just enough to nourish the body. My diet consists of meat, vegetables, eggs or anything else that I want, but in small quantities. People eat and drink far too much. Indeed, I know of men and women who are food drunk all the time. I hardly ever take any out-door recreation, but I live abstemiously as my father did before me. If people would diet themselves and drop drugs many common ailments would disappear.

While swimming with a number of young companions in Russian river, Hugh McMichaels, aged 15 years, was drowned in the presence of the others, but none knew his fate until some time had elapsed. The boy's parents reside about seven miles below Healdsburg. The scene of the accident was the Lambert ranch.

Moody Castle, one of the unique houses on Coronado beach, has been destroyed by fire. Only one person was in the house at the time that the fire started and he escaped after being severely burned. The contents of the cottage, which was one of the landmarks on the beach, were lost. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

Organized agitation on a large scale throughout California has been mapped out by the State El Camino Real Association. The executive committee met in Los Angeles and named fifty-seven county representatives; that is to say, one for each county in the State. The committee transacted a large amount of business incident to launching the campaign for the re-establisment of the historic highways.

President Roncovieri of the Board of Education, San Francisco, has had circulars sent to the principals and teachers of the various schools calling attention to the arrangements made to have the eyes of pupils examined by Dr. Louis Deane and a corps of other volunteers. It is urged that every facility be furnished them in their work. The physicians will also look into the condition of throats, ears and nasal passages of pupils.

Albert Roach of Oakland, whose appointment as a deputy sheriff was revoked because he was detected in issuing duplicate orders on his salary, cannot be found by those who would prosecute him for obtaining money under false pretenses. It has been about ten days since the former deputy was last seen about his accustomed haunts, and it is believed that he has fled, fearing arrest.

In the Superior Court of Glenn county J. W. Swift has been found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon. Swift had a quarrel with one Aldridge over the sale of a team. The defendant inveigled Aldridge to a lonely spot on the Fruto branch of the Southern Pacific and there knocked him down and tried to crush his skull with a sharp stone. Being overcome by his pleas for mercy, Swift ceased to attack Aldridge and on his promising not to prosecute the case Swift brought the injured man back to Willows. The officers heard of the affair and placed Swift under arrest.

The Presidio, San Francisco, is to have a fine new rifle range, and if it comes up to the expectation of the military board, which has passed upon the plans, it will completely revolutionize the small-arms practice and give the United States an army of sharpshooters. The system has been arranged by Captain Charles R. Howland after a year's hard study over the proposition. The Captain became interested in the question while the junior aide of General MacArthur. He also held the position of Inspector of Small Arms Practice. It was through his efforts that the rifle range was established last summer at Benicia.

Tattooed arms are the only things to suggest the identity of a man who was crushed to death by a Southern Pacific freight car. The body of the man was found at Fifth and Townsend streets, San Francisco. On the left forearm is tattooed the figures of a sailor and a woman. On the right forearm is a tattooed design composed of a woman holding a flag, an eagle, and the words "Young America." Deputy Coroner McCormick says he thinks the man was struck by the freight car on Townsend street, near Fourth, and dragged nearly a block to the point where the body was found.

The Southern Pacific detectives are in possession of evidence pointing to the identity of the three robbers who held up the Oregon Express at Copley, in Shasta county, on the night of March 31st and killed the Wells, Fargo Express messenger O'Neil. The men for whom the detectives are looking are George Gates, Edwin Vernon Gates and James Arnett. The two first named are the sons of a reputable and well-to-do resident of Alameda. Arnett hails from Klamath Falls, Or., and is a well-known bad character. A reward of $850 has been offered for the capture of each of the three, of this amount $300 is contributed by the State, a like sum by the Wells, Fargo Company and $250 by the Southern Pacific. The men have been trailed into Southeastern Oregon and may be run to earth any day.

Miss Minnie Coulter, our popular and efficient Supt. of Schools, was signally honored by the Biennial Convention of County Superintendents of California at their meeting in Santa Barbara last week. Her paper on "How can Teachers' Institutes be Improved," received enconiums on all sides. She was also chosen Vice President, the first lady ever so honored, of the assembly, State Supt. Kirk being the ex-officio President. Sonoma County is justly proud of her superintendent.

photograph which he tossed on his wife's dressing case. She took it up and looked at it with a flush of anger.

"Do you suppose for one moment that I am going to leave you in this house with that bold looking thing?"

"Why not?"

"I have some regard for your good name even if you have made it impossible for me to live with you, and I don't propose to have it said that I was turned out of the house to make room for such a creature as that."

"I told you she was homely."

"You didn't tell me she was loud looking."

There was an ominous silence that was broken by his wife.

"This is what I have come to—married to a man whose past, if I had only known it, doubtless foreshadowed that he would at any time turn me out of doors"—

"Turn you out of doors! Why, I thought you were going and wouldn't be induced to remain."

—"for one of his old associates whom he would bring into it, perfectly careless of the opinion of respectable people."

"What interest have you in my housekeeper?"

"I have this interest—people shall not say: 'Poor woman! To think that she should be sent away to make room for'"—

"Then you are not going?"

"Under the circumstances I am not."

"And Lily's services will not be required?"

"Most assuredly they will not."

"Well?"

"Well, I shall have Cynthia, the old black woman who occasionally does a day's work for me. She is a good cook and will satisfy that most important part of you, your stomach."

"And who will satisfy those diminutive parts, my head and heart?"

"You married a wife for that, but treated her so shamefully that she was obliged to leave you." She said this less angrily.

"It seems to me this is a matter for compromise. I want Lily Ruston for my housekeeper. You want me to have Cynthia. Now, what do you say to"—

"Oh, I dare say you have a large stock of old flames, any of whom would be brazen enough"—

"Hear me out, One of these flames I don't think you will have any objection to. And I admit with her I could pass the time delightfully. Stay; here is her photograph."

He took out his hunting watch, opened it and showed his wife her own picture in the case. She looked up at him, smiling through tears. He put his arm around her and kissed her.

"Who is that—thing?" she asked.

"What thing?"

She pointed to the photograph on his dressing case.

"Oh, that? I don't know. I saw it when I was a bachelor in a shop window, bought it and put it in my book of beauty. She was an actress, I believe, but I never saw the original."

F. A. MITCHEL.

Bad Blood Is The Enemy of Good Health

It is no more reasonable to expect to get good health from bad blood than it is to expect to get a good crop out of bad soil. Bad blood is and always must be the enemy of good health. The several organs of the body are nourished by blood. If the blood is bad, that is to say impure, or if it is deficient in red corpuscles, popularly known as "poor" blood, the vital organs of the body must be weakened.

In general the impurity of the blood is marked by surface eruptions, such as boils, pimples, eczema, tetter, scrofulous sores, or erysipelas.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures disfiguring eruptions, heals scrofulous sores, and cures other results of impure blood, because it cleanses the blood of the impurities which cause disease. It acts directly on the blood-making glands, increasing the quantity and improving the quality of the blood.

"I write this note for the benefit of any who may be suffering," says Mr. John T. Walk, of Muldoon, Texas. "I have received a perfect cure. Had chronic sore leg for four years, and went to see two doctors, but they failed to do me any good. I wrote to you for advice, and you told me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and use his All-Healing Salve. I did so, and after using five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and six boxes of the 'Salve' I was cured. I will recommend your medicines to all my friends, and will advise any who are suffering from any chronic disease to write to Dr. Pierce, as he will kindly give advice freely as he did to me."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and do not want.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to cover expense of mailing only. Send twenty-one one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers; or thirty-one stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Hurt.

Mrs. J. P. Weems had a bad fall and narrow escape last Sunday. While riding her wheel near the sidewalk in front of her home the front wheel struck the remains of a gum tree and about-faced instanter.

Mrs. W. soared skyward for a very brief spell, then landed on head and shoulders with a mighty uncomfortable jolt. An ugly gash on the head and severe bruises was the result. She is around again smiling as usual and consoling herself with the thought of how much worse it might of been.

Hurrah! for the Fourth of July

I. O. O. F. WILL CELEBRATE THE DAY IN SONOMA

THE GREATEST CELEBRATION EVER HELD HAS BEEN PROMISED BY THEM.

Sonoma Lodge No. 28, I. O. O. F. have made arrangements to celebrate the nation's birthday in grand style.

They believe they have three good reasons for feeling greatly jubilant and anxious to celebrate in rousing style.

First and foremost, they are all patriotic; second, Fifty years ago, July 1854, Sonoma Lodge, I. O. O. F. was instituted; third, that annoying little technicality, known as mortgage, will be cremated and the lodge will be entirely out of debt.

There will be literary exercises in the morning, a brass band, a great parade, a basket picnic in the plaza, dancing during the day, decorations galore, horse-races, bicycle races and other contests for which valuable prizes will be given, and a grand ball at night.

Every moment of time, day and night will have something to enjoy, There will be great times here on the Fourth of July.

Getting Ready for the Summer Trade

Boyes' Hot Springs, inc., have given the contract for building a large stone swimming tank 150x75 ft. to P. Maroni, the stone mason, who will begin work on the tank next week.

Mr. Francis is also having a number of other improvements done at the springs. A number of floors are being laid for tents and the bath house, tubs and residence have been thoroughly renovated and all the latest sanitary plumbing introduced J. J. Dunbar is doing the plumbing work.

A large summer dining room is under way.

A novel system has been inaugurated for the purpose of letting cold water into the tubs, for those who find the natural mineral water too uncomfortably warm for bathing purposes.

The manager declares that when his plans are all carried out, Baden-Baden will not be more famous than Boyes' Hot Springs (which are superior of course).

Sonoma Brass Band.

The Sonoma Brass Band will give a grand ball in Union Hall on the evening of June 10, next. Good music and a long program of good dances promises a satisfying evening of pleasure.

Master Hotz's Birthday

Lloyd Hotz celebrated his 11th, birthday Saturday by giving a party at the home of his parents. A goodly number of young friends were present and a jolly round of fun and frolic made the time pass all to soon.

Tempting refreshments were served in abundance. Master Lloyd was the recipient of many useful and ornamental tokens.

Accident to Mr. Mount

Last Sunday evening as Mr. Mount of the jewelry firm of Mount and Ross, Petaluma and Sonoma, was returning to the former place from Sonoma, the horse took fright near the tannery and upset the buggy. In the conveyance were also Mrs. Mount and her sister, Mrs. Helme, both of whom were severely bruised. Mrs. Helme is suffering from a broken rib and Mrs. Mount from a dislocated shoulder. Mr. Mount held on to the horse for about 40 yards but at last let go. The ladies seem to be suffering more than Mr. Mount and it is a miracle that all escaped with as little injury as they did. It is to be hoped that all three will soon recover from the effects of the accident.

Disastrous Runaway

Tuesday afternoon a team hitched to a mowing machine, started from the Thomas Brown place without the driver and ran down to the Breitenbach corner, thence up Napa street towards town.

The team was stopped by Ernest Clewe opposite Small's carpenter shop. Pieces of the mowing machine are to be found enroute, It was broken beyond repair. No one was injured and it is surprising that the horses were not worse cut than they are.

Game Last Sunday

Base Ball season of 1904 is opened by the defeat of the home team.

BY MIKE.

"Play Ball" Strike one and ,,ball one" were the sounds that made the fans happy.

There is lots of room for improvement; get out and practice boys.

Both teams played a little short of of good; boys if you dont do better than that you will never draw the crowd.

The feature of the game was the swell pitching of Geo Cannell which wasn't much to brag about when he home team got 16 hits off him.

Next Sunday we will try to give the people a run for their money watch out "Bear Flags".

DECISION AGAINST COUNTY

The Supreme Court has reversed the decision of the Superior Court of this county in the case of S. B. Wright versus Herbert W. Austin, supervisor of Sonoma county. Attorney T. J. Butts, who represents Mr. Wright in the case, received notification of the decision Wednesday evening.

This is a case involving water rights and it was brought to enjoin the Board of Supervisors from sinking a well on the Sebastopol road a road adjoining the plaintiff's property. Damages were waived. The well was sunk by the side of the road near the Wright property line. The plaintiff's attorney contended that the county's highways are for the use of the people merely for traveling and that the county had no legal right to sink wells thereon and thus divert water from the lands adjoining. Judge Seawell held for the county and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court, which now reverses the decision of the lower court.

Business has increased to such an extent at Clewe's that a new and larger delivery wagon had to be purchased. Its a dandy and can carry two tons. Mr. Clewe will probably find it necessary to run two wagons during the "summer harvest season.

THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

It Was at First Known as the Cape of All the Storms.

An early navigator, Bartolomeu Diaz, commissioned by King John II. of Portugal to continue the work of African exploration down the west coast, sailed from Lisbon in August, 1486, with a small force and landed at several places, of which he took possession in the name of his master.

As he approached the southern extremity of the continent he was blown out to sea by a tremendous storm and doubled the Cape without knowing it. Land was not again made until the mouth of the Great Fish river was sighted, and the ships came to anchor in Algoa bay. A council held there decided to return home, and on the way back the Cape was discovered and christened by the commander, in remembrance of his first experience, Cabo Tormentoso, or Cabo des Todos les Tormientos; that is, Cape of All the Storms.

When the discovery was reported to the king he immediately saw the immense possibilities of a new road to the Indies and bestowed upon it the happier name of the Cape of Good Hope. By a singular corruption of its first title the Cape was long known to English seamen as the Cape of Torments, and the legend of the "Flying Dutchman" was localized there by a misunderstanding of the experiences of this Portuguese expedition.

SHOOTING STARS.

They Are Simply Falling Masses of Stony or Metallic Matter.

Falling stars are masses of stony or metallic matter which, moving freely through space, approach so near to the earth as to penetrate and traverse the upper regions of our atmosphere. Raised to white heat by friction with the air, owing to their immense velocity, which averages thirty-five miles a second, they become luminous and often leave a trail of light.

Several well defined groups or swarms of these bodies revolve around the sun in elliptic orbits, which are periodically encountered by the earth. Such are the Lyrids (April 19-22), the Leonids (Nov. 14-16) and Andromedids (Nov. 23-24), so called because they seem to radiate from a point within the constellations after which they are respectively named.

It is computed that no fewer than twenty millions of these bodies enter the earth's atmosphere daily, each one of which, under favorable conditions, would be distinctly visible. Occasionally they reach the earth in solid form, but showing signs of recent fusion of an outer layer. They vary in weight from some hundreds of pounds to a single grain. Their principal chemical constituents are iron, magnesium, silicon, oxygen, nickel and cobalt.

LOVE IN LAPLAND.

Things a Suitor Must Do Before He Wins His Bride.

When a lad is in love with a girl in Lapland they run a race—not a fair race, for he is so heavily handicapped that if she wishes the girl can get first to the goal, but if she cares for the young man who is trying to win she lets him overtake her, because if she outruns him he cannot propose again.

But even if he wins the race and the girl at the same time the young lovers cannot be married until they have the consent of the girl's parents. At one time if a man married a girl without this he was liable to receive capital punishment.

Besides an engagement ring, the young Laplander sends his future bride a girdle and a quantity of brandy. He goes as far as the door of her hut, but remains outside until invited to enter, when a bumper of brandy is offered to the girl's father. If he drinks it, it means that he gives his consent to the marriage, and the happy lover then pays the father a sum of money and promises to give the girl some clothes.

Why He Remained Home.

Model Husband (boastfully)—Yes, gentlemen, I've been married ten years and never spent a night away from home yet.

Doubting Thomas—Large and interesting family, eh?

"Only three of us."

"Have one child, eh?"

"No; the other is my wife's mother."

Not Hungry at the Moment.

"Did Alkali Ike make that tenderfoot eat his words?"

"No. The tenderfoot turned out to be one of those fellows who would rather fight than eat."—Chicago Journal.

CASTOFF CLOTHING.

IT PAYS TO SEARCH THE POCKETS AND THE LININGS.

Bills, Coins and Letters Have a Way of Hiding Themselves—Experiences of a Man Who Buys Discarded Garments—Hints to the Careless.

"One can't buy castoff clothing for many years without meeting some queer experiences," remarked an "old clothes man" the other day as he fumbled through the pockets of a suit which he had just purchased for 50 cents. "Of course I don't expect to find anything—nothing except maybe some old letters. But it pays to run through the pockets and feel the lining. If a man who lets his wife sell his castoff clothes only knew what got lost in the lining of his coat sometimes he wouldn't feel so easy about parting with them. A man sticks important letters in his inside coat pocket, and some day when he wants them they are not there. He hunts and fumes around, but the letters don't turn up. Then he thinks they must have been torn up or burned, and he forgets the matter.

"But important letters don't go that way generally. They turn up sometimes to accuse a man. They find their way between the lining of the coat or vest, and we fellows get hold of them. If I wanted to go into the blackmailing business I could make plenty of money. I've found letters and papers in castoff clothing that would make pretty startling reading for some people. Of course when we get the clothes by hunting up the address in the directory we can locate either the writer or the one receiving it.

"I don't think that, as a rule, women sell their husbands' castoff clothing any more without going through all their pockets. Maybe they've got into the habit of searching them so that it becomes a second nature to them. So it is not in the pockets we find things. It's in the lining, where they have found their way gradually.

"You know how easy it is for small coins to work their way through a hole in the lining of a vest and snuggle down in the corner of the cloth. Well, we pick up quite a number of dimes and nickels in this way. Usually a vest is a small silver mine. Probably the wife of a man feels something there and thinks it is only a button or some such thing, or maybe a penny, and she won't bother in trying to fish it out. But pennies don't work down there nearly as readily as the dimes do.

"In the same way a bill will get mixed up in the lining of the inside pocket and finally disappear. The man probably misses a five or ten dollar bill and thinks he must have lost it or spent it foolishly. The matter escapes his mind, the suit is thrown to one side and some day it is sold to the 'old clothes man.' It doesn't escape us. We go through every inch of the lining and examine the corners and inside carefully. The bills we find in the course of a day will often more than pay us for what we have given for all of the clothes.

"Many men are extravagant in getting rid of their castoff clothing. They have so many that they become a nuisance to them. Sell them to the first man who comes along is the easiest way for them to dispose of their useless belongings. If the servants don't take them, we get a fine pick at them. For from 50 cents to a dollar you get a suit that will when brushed, steamed, cleaned and pressed easily bring $3 to $5. The clothes are not worn much, but just soiled and mussed a little. The trousers are stretched a little so they will bag at the knees when used a few days at a time. A man with plenty of money won't stand that. He will order his wife or valet to sell them.

"The greatest amount I ever found in money in one coat was a ten dollar bill, but several times I've found two and five dollar bills and one dollar bills by the score. Once I found a check for $100, but as that was no good to me I returned it to the owner and received a dollar reward for my honesty. The best find, however, was several years ago, when I discovered a bunch of railroad coupons between the lining and inside cloth of one of these fancy vests. I suppose I might have cashed the coupons and received $1,000 for them, but there was some risk to such a proceeding. So I concluded to turn them over to the owner and trust to his generosity. He gave me $100 in bills and commended me for my honesty. He had missed the coupons and had advertised for them. Later I found that he had offered a reward of $300 for their return. You can bet I was mad then that I didn't get more for returning them.

"As for important letters, I might say that they come to us in droves. Generally we read them and chuck them in the fire. It's the best way. If a man has lost a letter which would incriminate him he doesn't like to have it turn up. It will always worry him a little, but he lives in the hope that it is lost for good and gradually forgets it."—Washington Star.

Funerals For the Health.

At a funeral in Glasgow a stranger who had taken his seat in one of the mourning coaches excited the curiosity of the other three occupants, one of whom at last asked him:

"Ye'll be a brither o' the corp?"

"No, I'm no a brither o' the corp!"

"Weel, then, ye'll be his cousin?"

"No, I'm not that!"

"Then ye'll be at least a frien' o' the corp?"

"Not that either. To tell the truth, I've no been weel mysel', and as my doctor has ordered me some carriage exercise I thocht this wad be the cheapest way to tak' it."—From "Reminiscences," by Sir Archibald Geikie.

Times Have Changed.

Once upon a time a superstition existed that a lady ought to blame herself if a man whom she did not intend to accept proposed to her, but that, should such an unpleasant incident occur, it was at least not to be made a subject of gossip among her acquaintances. Parents thought it incumbent upon them to let a man understand in time if they did not wish him as a son-in-law. It is needless to remark that such honorable reticence and kindly prudence are quite out of fashion.—London Standard.
